In Loving Memory of

Adam Jay Clark

April 28, 1978 – April 4, 2026

Adam Jay Clark, 47, of Logsden, Oregon, passed away on April 4, 2026. He leaves behind a life marked by love, resilience, and deep devotion to his family. He was born on April 28, 1978, in Toledo, Oregon, to Melvin Clark and Lindsay Ramberg Clark, and grew up surrounded by the values of loyalty, strength, and community that stayed with him throughout his life.

Adam was known for his strong spirit, his willingness to stand by the people he cared about, and his ability to make those around him feel valued. He carried himself with quiet strength, had a great sense of humor, and was, as many would say, cooler than the other side of the pillow. He kept life interesting and always had a joke ready when you needed it most. He found joy in life's simple moments, especially time spent with family.

Adam had a generous heart and a deep sense of responsibility for the people he loved. He made sure that his girls and the people he cared about were provided for, even if it meant giving his last dollar. He showed his love through his actions—being there when it mattered, offering support without hesitation, and putting others before himself. His presence brought comfort, his words brought laughter, and his love left a lasting mark on everyone who knew him.

He is lovingly remembered by his mother, Lindsay Ramberg Clark; his siblings, Kelly and Kimberly; and his ex-wife, Nicole.

Adam was a proud and devoted father to his daughters, Breanna (24), Makayla (20), and Sierra (13), who were the center of his world. He was also a loving grandfather to Nyomie Fae (3), Raleigh (4), Nova (9), and Evelyn (3), who brought him endless pride and happiness. He cherished every moment he had with them, whether it was sharing laughs, giving advice, or simply being present. His love for his family was unwavering, and he took great pride in watching his children grow and his grandchildren begin their own journeys. The bond he shared with them will forever remain in their hearts.

Adam is now at peace, reunited in heaven with his father, Melvin Clark; his grandmother, Fern; and his grandfather, Jason Sr. He is also reunited with his beloved dogs, Dede and Sobaka, and Nyomie Fae's cherished cat, Winnie—surrounded again by the love that meant so much to him.

His legacy lives on in the love he gave and the memories he created with those closest to him. Though he is no longer physically present, his spirit will continue to live on through his family, in the lessons he taught, the laughter he shared, and the strength he inspired in others. He will be deeply missed beyond words, but never forgotten, and will forever be carried in the hearts of those who love him. And somewhere up in heaven, his fridge is stocked full of Red Bulls, snickerdoodle, and carrot cake—just the way he would've liked it.
