Lou was well known in the Lincoln County Community. She was a giving, caring and very compassionate woman who was loved and admired by many. She never gave up on anything or anyone. She worked hard for her family and loved them with all her heart.

She loved hunting, fishing, camping, riding ATV's, motorcycles, reading, making jam and canning tuna, and so much more. She taught hunter safety courses, was a foster parent, hosted Christmas parties for foster children, and taught life skills for disabled adults. She drove her own dump truck and managed many restaurants. Lou was a wonderful woman who wore many hats. She was loved by so many in the community.

She was involved in many clubs, including American Legion Auxillary and the cribbage club, and loved her community.

She married the love of her life in August 1965 and later they renewed their vows on May 4th, 1978 in Reno Nevada.
