

Kim Sanger

December 25, 1959 - November 29, 2025

Kim Sanger passed away peacefully on November 29, 2025, at the age of 65 in South Beach, OR. She was born in San Diego, CA, to Patricia and Don Strickland on Christmas 12-25-1959. Christmas was always a special time to her.

A natural mother and teacher, Kim began influencing the lives of children while babysitting as a young girl. She touched many lives throughout the course of her own. She selflessly devoted all of her energies to taking care of others, her family and any children who came to her in need.

Kim was a talented artist and crafter. Her beautiful beaded bells and Christmas stockings will be cherished, in many homes, for generations to come.

Kim was a loving wife and sister, and devoted mother, always supportive of her family's dreams. She is survived by her husband, Jay Sanger, two daughters, Autumn Breeze Sanger and Sierra Creste Sanger, and granddaughter Flora Fae Sanger. Those who knew Kim will remember her as a fount of motherly wisdom and a beacon of love and caring.

There are no memorial services planned. When it came to herself, Kim was a quiet and private sort who gave to everyone and didn't want big fusses made over her, not on her birthday (Christmas was so much more to her than a birthday) and not at her death.

Tribute Wall

TS

“ Kim was my older sister, we were best friends for a long time, we had our differences but I always loved her she took me to my first concert and passed out in line was funny hate to say I always blackmailed her every time she snuck out at night made a lot of money off her no wonder she hated me but loved me too. When we got older we hung out with each other all the time. I will miss you Kimmy come get me when it's my time love you

Tamra Strickland - December 12, 2025 at 02:02 AM

LS

“ Kim was a great big sister mom and grandma i am so blessed to have been able to go visit her in Oregon I will treasure the memories we made ❤️ I love u kim u r going to be soooo missed

leslie zamorano sister - December 05, 2025 at 06:15 PM